BENEFITS FOR SERVICE MEMBERS:

- Gain real-world civilian work experience.
- Build a professional network and assess career interests.
- Access competitive training and certification programs.
- Transition smoothly from military to civilian employment.

The Department of Defense (DoD) SkillBridge program allows active-duty service members within 180 days of separation to receive civilian job training, internships, or apprenticeships with approved industry partners and government agencies, providing hands-on experience for a smoother transition to civilian life. During the program, service members continue to receive their military compensation and benefits, while employers gain access to trained talent for future roles.

GAIN VALUABLE EXPERIENCE

TRAINING

Service members gain valuable work experience through internships, apprenticeships, or training programs with approved companies and government agencies.

CAREER PREPERATION

The program connects service members with industry partners and government agencies to build resumes, explore job interests, and acquire skills for high-demand fields.
